

Library Report to the City Council

December 2017

Random Fandom Night will be December 14 commencing at 6:30. Library staff have been working with Nicole on her Senior Seminar project. Nicole sent out a survey to the student body to see what library activity would be of interest to them. The majority of students replied that they would like to attend an event based on their favorite movie or TV character. So, Nicole and the library staff have been planning this event geared towards high school students which includes a costume contest, photo booth, coloring, and movie/TV trivia contest. Prizes are movie tickets, playing cards, and comic books. Staff have really enjoyed working with Nicole on her Senior Seminar project!

During Christmas break, the library will host a special Lego Club. Participants will have two hours to be creative and design their Lego masterpieces! Truly, these students dream up outstanding creations! Come see their display.

The Oelwein Writer's League have picked up their latest book from the printer! Our local authors have collected their stories into this volume entitled, Visions. If you would like to purchase a copy, contact Ron Garceau. The OWLS meet at the library the first and third Mondays of the month at 10:00 a.m.

Book Club

The Oelwein Library has sponsored an afternoon book club for years. Now, we have a group that is interested in starting an evening book club. The first meeting will be January 2 at 6:30 p.m. At the initial meeting, the group will plan when they want to meet and what they want to read. This is a great way to discover and enjoy a book you may not have, otherwise, read on your own!
